Dear John,

Your message of complementarianism affects me and all Christian women. That same message affects all men, whether they are Christian or not.

The previous lines are left blank because I had an idea of how it would be received. However, Jesus is our standard, and since Jesus did not commit women to husbands, or to males, and because Jesus did not deny women anything based on their being women, then we cannot in good stewardship of the gospel do so either.

Your sister in Christ,
